THE CHINESE EMPIRE.

Recent Concession of Russia—The Trouble between China and the Government of Hongkong—To Abolish the Trade in Women

Oct. 1—(via San Francisco Oct) Colonial communications from the Colonial office show that hostile petitions of disaffected residents of Hongkong against Governor Hennessy have failed. Hennessy was sustained on every point of the controversy, and the approval emphasized by the increase of his salary to £6,000 yearly dating back to January, 1879

There is great exultation in Chinese official circles over the restoration of the province of Kuldja through a treaty negotiated at St. Petersburg. Apprehension is expressed by many diplomatic agents that China, elated by this unexpected occasion will assume henceforth a bearing of increased pride and defiance. Intelligence from Japan as to the temper of the government is anxiously awaited at coast ports.

The present time efforts of interested parties to foment trouble between China and Japan on the Foo Choo question have failed. It is anticipated, however that in view of China's sudden success in Russian affairs, that these endeavors will be renewed.

The revelation in Hongkong of the system of slavery practiced by Chinese purveyors for brothels, and of the raids made by kidnappers among villagers on the main land, of young girls, who are bought to be sold and confined until sufficiently matured, and then resold has caused intense feeling. The discovery was made through a proclamation offering a reward for a runaway slave girl fourteen years old. Legal investigation is progressing and extraordinary disclosures have already been made. The operations of the slave traders are very extensive, reaching even to Japan, a Japanese girl having been found in

AFGHANISTAN

Inquiring Into the Cabul Massacre—England's Policy Toward Afghanistan—The Ameer and Prominent Afghans Under Surveillance—Obnoxious Rules

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES OF THE OREGONIAN]

London Oct 27 — Inquiry into the massacre at Cabul is proceeding. The ameer's father in law, ex governor of Cabul and the minister of finance are under close arrest. A correspondent at Simla writes: The idea must be abandoned that we intend to stand aloof from the internal affairs of Afghanistan. It cannot be too soon published that we mean to remain in the country. Those who now assist us will not hereafter be left to settle accounts with a future ruler. The correspondent indicates that the tendency of opinion at Simla strongly favors the policy of disintegration rather than an attempt to set up a strong central government at Cabul. He points to the fact that Herat, Candahar and Afghan Turkistan remain tranquil under their petty chiefs months after all control from Cabul had been withdrawn. A correspondent at Candahar denies that the governor of Kelati Ghilzai fled with his whole staff. He left because he had lost all authority and at the request of British officers. Yakoob Khan is voluntarily in Gen Roberts camp and is in a pitiable state of apathy and depression. The new rules for the guidance of newspaper correspondents in the field have aroused a storm of indignation. Their object is evidently to put it in the power of a general to suppress everything savoring of criticism. These rules emanate from the military secretary and it seems certain that neither viceroy nor the commander in chief had any hand in their composition or promulgation. It is hoped, therefore that the general condemnation they meet with will cause their withdrawal

Afghans to be Hanged for the Recent Horrible Slaughter

Cabul Oct 27 — Five men who will be hanged for complicity in the massacre of the British embassy include Kotwal, of Cabul the head of the city Mollahs and two generals one of royal blood. One of the generals it is charged dragged the head of Major Cavagnari from the British residency to Bulahissa

DAYTON AND GRAND RONDE RAILROAD.

A year ago a prominent citizen of Sheridan by request of parties interested, made an estimate of the amount of traffic which would be drawn to the Dayton and Grand Ronde railroad. By request we publish this statement which doubtless will be of interest to that part of the state

Taking the topography of the country into account as in the case of the Amity and Eola range of hills near the Willamette any person knowing these facts will see at a glance that a large amount of business will be forced to this road beyond its natural attraction, rather than climb those hills to reach boat transportation on the Willamette. And then the Yamhill valley is a much wider and longer valley than is generally supposed. The whole Grand Ronde valley, a prairie wheat field is twelve miles beyond the western terminus of the road at Sheridan

After getting estimates of the amount of wheat exported in past years from McMinnville St Joe Dayton, Weston Wheatland and Lincoln points through which the wheat of the Yamhill valley has found its outlet heretofore but which will now in large part go to the narrow gauge road. I estimate that on the average crop, this railroad will carry not less than 650,000 bushels of wheat on the line between Sheridan and Dayton

And then taking into account the large tracts of fine wheat land not cultivated heretofore by reason of remoteness from the facilities of transportation I estimate that the annual increase on this amount will be fully 50,000 bushels for the next five years

Next to wheat the most important item of traffic will be lumber. There are now four saw mills which furnish lumber almost exclusively to the people along the line of this railroad and which is now hauled by teams from ten to twenty miles. These mills cut about 3,000,000 feet per annum which reduced to car loads of 4000 feet each would make 750 car loads per annum

There are now seven general dry goods stores on the line of this road and they have heretofore paid out from $500 to $1000 per annum for freights on merchandise alone. To this may be added the transportation of the vast amount of agricultural machinery brought in every year and in all cases hauled by teams from Dayton

Then there is a large business to be expected in the export of oak timber, staves etc, of wool hides live stock fruit potatoes and all the small produce of a rich region like this

I have no means of estimating the number of passengers daily except the general idea of what may be done by what the Sheridan, Amity and Salem hack lines all carrying passengers from the line of this road which must go to the railroad. I should think fifteen passengers each way per day a low estimate. Then to this must be added the carrying of the mail

I may add that I have no personal interest in this road as a stockholder or creditor but only in the general prosperity of the country

The Northern Pacific

From the Chicago Times

The Northern Pacific shows wonderfully. September. The gross earnings for the month were $205,000 against $1 for the same month last year while the expenses for the month are estimated by General Manager Sargent's $120,000. This will do. It is indicative of the rapidity with which the country is filling. The capacity of the road is taxed to its utmost (and is then insufficient) to carry the wheat out and the merchandise in

Sad Case of Self Murder at Salmon Bay

Seattle Oct 2 — A terrible tragedy was enacted at Salmon bay five miles below this city on last Friday evening. An old man named James Lawson had some time ago located with his family including a wife and three grandchildren on a claim in that vicinity. Recently a third party named Switzer jumped the claim filing on the same and notifying Lawson to vacate the premises within a specified time. Lawson who had made considerable improvement thereon determined to contest Switzer's filing and employed a lawyer for this purpose but finally gave up the case as hopeless. On Friday time having arrived for his compliance with the notification above mentioned the old man became hopelessly despondent. Early in the evening a rap was heard at the door and Law on supposing that the parties had arrived to take possession of the place became greatly excited. Just then the report of a pistol was heard. Mrs Lawson striking a light found her husband prostrate upon the floor with blood issuing from his mouth and side. Seizing his hand she cried Oh James they have shot you! No he replied I did it myself. I could not stand this any longer, and soon after expired. Switzer took possession of the premises to day whereupon the settlers waited upon him in a body and notified him to cancel his filings at once or there would be trouble. GRANT AT VIRGINIA CITY.

The Distinguished Visitor is Toasted on the Comstock—The City of the Desert Greets him Cordially

Big Procession—Grand Display and Fine Turnout

Reception at the Depot—Mayor Young's Speech—Particulars of the Affair—A General Hurrah Indulged in by the Silver Miners of Nevada Etc

Virginia City Oct. — The day was fairly ushered in by the firing of a veteran salute. The whole town was astir at an early hour and the streets by o'clock were thronged with pedestrians, the houses generally being decorated. C street was a mass of flags from the beginning of first to the end of the fourth ward. The most extensive decorations were at the Savage office where Grant is to remain during his stay here

The procession including veterans of the Mexican and late war together with vehicles in carriages which included the mayor and members of the reception committee, the city, county and state officers formed on B street and marched to Gold Hill depot. Other portions of the procession marched to the divide at leisure where a junction was formed. There was a crowd at the Gold Hill depot an hour before the advertised time for Grant's arrival and it increased every five minutes until by a quarter to 1 o'clock there was hardly standing room anywhere in the vicinity. Houses and hilltops were covered with people all waiting anxiously for the first signal. The town was a wilderness of decorations. At ten minutes to 1 o'clock a salute was heard from American Flat and a few seconds later a sharp report of anvils utilized as cannon for the occasion were heard, mingled with the scream of a whistle. As each whistle joined in the chorus it indicated the progress of the train. At two minutes to 1 o'clock the train reached the depot. Members of the National Guard were detailed as sentries to keep the platform clear but they had little idea of their duties and the platform and avenues leading to it were crowded with a rabble of boys and sightseers despite their efforts to keep them back. The general came up in the palace car California with his wife and son Ulysses jr the governor and his staff and a number of ladies—invited by the Carson committee. As he reached the depot steps a great cheer from the crowd and a crash of music from the brass bands went up. He was met by Mayor Young who delivered the following address of welcome

Gen Grant: As the mayor of Virginia City in the name of her citizens I bid you welcome and cordially tender you and yours such hospitality as we can extend. Other cities have many attractions with which to entertain guests. We have but a mining camp on a desert mountain side. But, general if you will remain long enough with us I trust you will be led to conclude that the hearts of our people are like our mines—they grow warmer and show more and more gold the more they are explored. Those hearts are throbbing all hail to you to-day. The people of Nevada have watched exultingly and with full appreciation your past career and will never cease to remember with reverence the service you have rendered to your native country. I once more bid you a hearty welcome to Virginia City

Grant replied with a bow and a word of acknowledgment. He was then led to a carriage drawn by a six-in hand. Around the carriage formed in a hollow square, were military companies of the Comstock commanded by Gen C J Batterman. Governor Kinkead and Mayor Young occupied the carriage with Grant. The line of march led by the grand marshal and his aids, was then taken up along Telegraph street to Blanchard down Blanchard and then northward toward the divide where the Virginia procession joined. A special train with seven car loads of Carsonites reached this city at about 15 minutes behind the train bearing Grant and party. As the procession came up from Gold Hill the waiting portion fell into line, and the procession thus formed reached over a mile. The school children of Virginia City and Gold Hill were stationed in two rows on the divide between which the procession passed. The children numbered about 1500 and were marshaled by their teachers. A prominent feature of the procession was Capt Sam, chief of the Piutes, and his braves stripped to the waist and painted numbering about 30. The line of march lay along B street to Carson street down Carson to C street south along C street to the Savage office where General Grant left his carriage thence to the Chollar office on D street, thence north on D street—passing the office of the Savage Mining Co, from the east balcony of which the procession was reviewed by Grant. The procession was then disbanded after which there was an immense concourse of people on D street in the rear of the Savage mansion

In response to loud calls for Grant and a speech the general appeared on the balcony and was introduced by Mayor Young. He spoke as follows

Fellow Citizens: I am glad to meet you here to-day and I feel under many obligations for the fine reception you have given me. It is impossible for me to make a speech on this occasion. I am not like your senators who are in the habit of making speeches for the purpose of catching votes. I can't talk that way

The last sentence was received with prolonged cheers. There were then loud cries for Senator Sharon Senator Jones and Col Jas G Fair all of whom addressed the people briefly after which the crowd gradually dispersed. The grand marshal and his staff commissioned officers of the military companies and others who took leading parts in the reception ceremony then paid their respects to the general after which the Grant party and invited citizens sat down to a sumptuous lunch. From 4 to 5 o clock the Mexican union and confederate veterans were received at the same place. A public reception will take place in the district court room from 8 to 10 o'clock this evening and after this is over the general will be dined at the Savage office. To morrow Gen Grant will be the guest of Mr Mackey and will visit the mines. To morrow afternoon at o clock the Pioneer society will receive Gen Grant in their hall

How to Stop Indian Wars

[From the New York Herald]

If we have a new Indian war it is because the government has failed to adapt its Indian policy rapidly enough to the new order of things. To place a petty Indian tribe on a reservation as large as Massachusetts in these days when plains and mountains are filling with miners and farmers is to deliberately prepare the way for assassination of the peaceful whites and for a just feeling among the Indians that the government deals treacherously with them. The honest way is to show the Indians that the hunting days are past for them that they must conform themselves to the general customs of the whites and to the necessities of a new and to them intensely disagreeable life, that they must be content with one hundred and sixty acres for a family and that resistance is vain and futile.

Seattle Intelligencer: Some Indians fishing for Messrs Wilson & Ivy near this city yesterday made the largest catch of salmon that we have ever known to be taken from the Sound. They caught salmon at one haul. The catch consisted of 1100 fine large fall salmon averaging nearly pounds in weight, making a total of over ten tons or barrels of fish. This seems very like a whale but it is to catch is true

COMMENTS ON THE OHIO ELECTION

From the Cincinnati Gazette

In a great crisis whether in war or peace, whether in a contest of bullets or ballots, the people of Ohio have never been appealed to in vain. In many a severe contest it has always proved safe to trust the patriotism and intelligence of the people of this great commonwealth. Yesterday was no exception to the rule. Ohio having once again rendered a verdict that is just as it is emphatic it now remains for those republicans who were calculating upon a slender majority and who were halting between fear and hope to apologize to the people they seemed to distrust.

The democratic managers of this state and in the country regarded this Ohio election as a decisive action in the presidential campaign. The republicans also recognized that this election was the turning point and would settle whether the government of the nation should pass under the yoke of the solid confederacy

From the Cincinnati Commercial Ind

One of the results of the nation responds to the sentiments that have recently been spoken from the west, and that border the republic speaking to the same effect and with great emphasis, clearer and stronger than ever. The truth appears that the democratic party with the control of the slave of the south made solid by violence cannot prevail with the people at large. The saving common sense of the people is manifest in the rejection of Ewing who would disturb the conditions of prosperous business. It is the voice of Ohio that resumption is a good thing and shall be maintained. Senator Thurman made the mistake of his life when he consented to submit to the soft money fanatics who had been the bitterest of his enemies. He could not save them from the fate their policy had prepared and he not only lost his own cause but the chance to save his party. We expect as the result of this victory at least a slight and temporary reduction of stealings in this part of the country but the requisite for making this reduction permanent is the same as the price of liberty—eternal vigilance

[From the Chicago Times Ind]

Foster's election is the result of other causes than his own popularity. These causes were undoubtedly the distrust of the solid south and the soft money record of the democratic party. In the republican canvass the hard money issue was made subordinate to the solid south issue, but it was nevertheless used to advantage. The confederate brigadiers first and foremost did the mischief. The result is sufficiently clear as to the way the political wind blows. State sovereignty will be more unpopular now than it has ever been before. Some of the democratic politicians will even suddenly learn perhaps that they have always been in favor of national supremacy. The example of the Wisconsin democrats in turning a cold shoulder to the confederate brigadiers and condemning through the mouth of their standard bearer the bull dozing policy of the solid south will be imitated on all sides. The anxiety of the northern democratic party to prove that it owes no allegiance to the southern political captains will be absolutely painful. Just how the democratic leaders will try to obliterate their obstructive record in congress last spring is beyond conceiving but the attempt will surely be made

[From the Chicago Tribune]

Gen Tom Ewing's breast has been torn by dreadful emotions for the past sixty days. The emotions were on account of United States marshals who once in two years at elections for congressmen interfered with patriotic democrats to prevent them from voting oftener than once in one day. Gen Tom was fearfully torn up about it and meandered all over Ohio pouring out his irrepressible grief thereat to everybody that would listen to his tale of federal interference with the "personal liberty" of the democratic voter. He said he would appeal to the people of the great "sovereign" state of Ohio against the audacious outrage aforesaid and find out what folks thought about it in general generally. On Tuesday they told Thomas just exactly what conclusion they had come to in regard to the outrage and he will no longer be a doubting Thomas on that point. Having found out their opinions he can now calm his mind on the subject and take a rest

Read and Learn for Yourself.

Many valuable discoveries and much useful knowledge is kept from the world because of the immense expense in making them known to the people. This is not the case with Boschee's German Syrup. Although but a few years introduced into this country, its sale now reaches in every town and village in the United States. Its wonderful success in curing consumption, severe Coughs, Pneumonia, Asthma and all other diseases of the throat and lungs was first made known by distributing every year for three years over 400,000 bottles to the afflicted, free of charge by druggists. No such a test of merit was ever given before to any other preparation. Could you ask more? Go to your druggist and get a bottle for 75 cents and try it. Sample bottles 10 cents

TUESDAY MORNING, OCT [illegible]

RESTRICTIONS ON TRADE

Prof Fawcett an noted English writer on economic questions has published a [illegible] devoted to an inquiry into the causes which have retarded the general adoption of free trade by other nations since its introduction into England many years ago. The advantage of free commerce has long been demonstrated by the logic of facts — indeed it should require no great depth of reasoning to show that buying cheap and selling dear has the same advantages for a nation that it has for an individual And this is the whole basis of the principle of free trade [illegible] requires a long time to make this simple principle generally understood The [illegible] accepted free trade almost as one man after the first step had been taken and their faith stands firm But France which has been dallying with commercial treaties shows a disposition to curtail them and the United States are even more utterly given over to medieval and unscientific notions as to restriction of trade But in this connection Prof. Fawcett calls his reader's attention to the fact that strange ebbs and flows of thought occur in history The rapid growth of protestantism was followed by a sudden check, and its territorial limits have varied but little in two hundred years [illegible] religious beliefs rest largely upon matters which can not be reduced to sure knowledge and certain proof and their variations are little to be calculated Yet it is doubtful if the laws of trade, which would seem of all objects of human inquiry to be that one which could be reduced to most certain knowledge, are not as full of darkness to most men as the abstrusest speculations No vagary as to the effect of trade regulations is too wild to find followers whose faith like that of all true believers is firm in proportion to the absurdity of the creed Gods of wood and stubble are no more firmly trusted and no less potent to save than the financial delusions which are firmly held by a large proportion of men

So far as argument and demonstration can go, free trade is invincible No argument for the system of restriction and exclusion known as protection has ever been or ever can be presented, which cannot be overthrown in the space of twenty lines by any person who has an intelligent and firm grasp of the simple principles on which free trade is founded. As individuals we buy constantly of our fellows what they can make better and cheaper than we can, and in turn they buy of us what we can make better and cheaper than they can It is to our mutual advantage to do so, and the principle will apply to nations as well as to individuals For all the protection which producers and manufacturers obtain under our system other classes, that is consumers, have to pay It is self evident, and there is no denying it

But the history of human intellectual development shows instances almost without number in which men in great masses have persisted in the most irrational fallacies and this phenomenon of persistence in the exploded fallacies of protection should not therefore occasion great surprise. To the minds of many the inquiry is never presented as a clear question standing on its own merits, but the view of it is clouded or colored by a partisan habit of mind If a political opponent inclines toward free trade it is enough to confirm others in their sturdy opposition to it Shallow a reason as this is multitudes want no better Again, the argument for protection is to many a kind of contradictory puzzle, and in it they see something that is to be believed and adhered to because it is somewhat mysterious just as large numbers of puzzle-headed people take up with the arguments for fiat money and other similar vagaries. Hence it is that though the business activity of the last twenty years, the wonderful results which commercial freedom has shown, and the ease with which venerable systems and antiquated restraints have been cast away, have rendered this a period when a better system of trade might have been expected to gain entire acceptance among civilized nations, such gain has not been made, at least to the extent which might justly have been anticipated from the general spirit of the age

In reply to what we so often hear that protection is needed for a new country to foster infant industries, Mr. Fawcett shows how protection grows by what it feeds on and how interests once protected ever after cry out for more fostering and dandling. The duties levied when this country began its life, when it was rude, undeveloped and scantily populated, were moderate. They averaged about 8½ per cent Forty times since 1789 has the tariff been changed with fluctuations in value, corrupt lobbying and speculative losses and gains which such tinkering must produce. The country is now rich and populous, but the protective duties now imposed range from 40 to 125 per cent What degree of fostering will our 'infant industries' demand when we have reached the age and state of China? The question is by no means an idle one.

In England free trade came about in large degree as a result of the demand for repeal of the corn laws. The effect of our tariff in increasing prices to be paid by the consumer in whose interests our statesmen give so little heed, is much more concealed than was the case in that crisis in England which forced the repeal of the tax on bread The English corn laws protected the agricultural interest, certainly one of the greatest importance. But the fact that he had to pay more for a barrel of flour than it could be purchased for were it not for restrictive legislation was seen by every man, however ignorant, and felt by every man however situated Our tariff increases the prices of things that are less essential and works its injurious effects in more hidden ways A hammer or a pair of shoes is less frequently bought than a loaf of bread and the cheapest prices for which they might be obtained are largely unknown. The fact that freight on every article is increased because a railway must endeavor to earn dividends on an unduly expensive road is not perceived by the farmer or retailer, nor the loss which is thereby entailed.

But as a convincing and final argument for protection it is said that the effect of protective laws with us has been the prosperity of the country, and the question is asked how can our system be wrong when we grow great and wax wealthy and [illegible] Let it be observed, however that the growth of wealth in the United States great [illegible] been, actually compares very unfavorably with that of England during the last [illegible] years. During fifty years our proportional increase has been greater because we [illegible] with so very little, but the actual increase of wealth has been vastly less than in England during the same time It should have been as great or greater Our internal resources are without limit But we deliberately place ourselves at a disadvantage Through restrictions upon our trade we fail to get the most out of our industry It is evident that we must buy of other countries or they can not buy of ours

The circumstances of our great civil war creating a demand for all possible revenue led to great increase of our tariff rates some eighteen years ago, and this situation has appeared to make the republican party an advocate and representative of high protective doctrines. But this is more seeming than real. Many republicans are earnest advocates [illegible]

[illegible] tally the republican convention [illegible] democrat [illegible] circulated and influential [illegible] of the party support [illegible] or advocate removal of [illegible] Among these we may [illegible] the New York [illegible] the New [illegible] the oldest [illegible] the Sacramento [illegible] republican [illegible] free trade [illegible] party but an [illegible] and experience [illegible] knowledge [illegible]

[illegible] MAN

[illegible] for the presidency [illegible] plea that it is necessary to have a strong man a man who will meet the confederate brigadiers a man who will [illegible] times of the south [illegible] It is [illegible] Grant for any of these reasons [illegible] reasons for making him president again they are very different from anything of this kind. Gen Grant if president could do nothing more than any other earnest man in the same position He could not take legislation out of the hands of congress he could not send the confederate brigadiers to prison he could not wrest from them the control of their state governments he could not send the army to take away from them the powers they have usurped he could not find a way to enforce the rights of citizens by national authority in the southern states In short he could do nothing whatever that any other president might not do In time of war when extraordinary powers must be employed a strong man can do great things But in time of peace when only strictly loyal methods clearly within constitutional limits can be followed it is idle to expect more from a military chieftain in the executive office than from any other earnest and firm man

A journal of Northern Michigan says that the old scheme of making the eastern terminus of the Northern Pacific at Portland Maine is again revived with no small probability of success It is now proposed to unite the several railroad land grants on the upper peninsula of Michigan and form a new organization to build a road from Duluth down the south shore of Lake Superior to Sault Ste Marie and Mackinac The road would connect with Canada lines to Montreal and thence to Portland making a route to the seaboard nearer by 400 miles than that by way of Chicago to New York With Portland, Maine as one terminus and Portland Oregon as the other the Northern Pacific would bestride a mighty destiny

The British official estimate of deficiency and loss in agricultural products for the present year shows that in the wheat alone the deficit can hardly be less than to the value of $125 000 000 This sum would reach $ 40 600 000 if beans peas and rye were counted in In potatoes which are now largely consumed even in Great Britain the loss is estimated at $75 000 000 in hay $75 000 000 This will reach a total loss of $300 000 000 It is claimed by persons intelligently posted on the subject that at least 17 000 000 quarters of wheat will be required for food until the harvest of 1880 against 14 600 000 quarters imported last year This of course will have to be paid for by the country in goods or gold

J H Lappeus discharged the duties of chief of police of this city for several years in a manner which secured for him the general respect and confidence of the people He was always active vigilant and faithful, and we do not think the public interests ever suffered in his hands Moreover he attended strictly to his official duties, and did not permit the police force of the city to become a political machine for use in elections As he adhered to this policy when the temptation to use the police as a political force was great, it may fairly be supposed that he will not depart from it now The appointment of Lappeus will have the approval of a majority of our citizens

The veteran politician Thurlow Weed has been talking to a representative of the New York Herald to whom he expresses the opinion that the Kelly bolt will beat Robinson and ruin Tilden's chances for the presidency On the republican side he thinks it will be a contest and a close one between Blaine and Sherman Should the behavior of the confederate brigadiers during the coming session of congress be fairly moderate and decent, he is of the opinion there will be no call for Grant

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN:

WASHINGTON, Oct 28.—12:25 A. M.—For Pacific coast, clear weather, except in Oregon and Washington territory.

CITY.

ADJUDGED INSANE.—Dr Joel M. Mack, for a number of years a resident of East Portland, was adjudged insane yesterday and committed to the asylum. Nearly ten years ago Dr. Mack's drug store, in East Portland, was entered by two burglars and his drawer rifled. While the thieves were opening the [illegible], the doctor, who was sleeping up stairs, was aroused by the noise and went down. He was attacked by the robbers, and during a fierce struggle which followed, Dr. Mack received a heavy blow on the head with an iron bar. The blow rendered him unconscious, and he was found several hours after lying on the floor insensible and bleeding freely from the scalp wound. He was restored to consciousness, and his wound dressed. For a number of weeks his life was despaired of, the skull having been slightly fractured, but he at length recovered. The heavy blow on the head did not seem to affect his brain for about three years, but after that time his mind gave evidence of being affected. His condition became gradually worse, until he was utterly incapable of taking care of himself. He was physically and mentally helpless, the type of insanity assuming a harmless form. At length his family and friends concluded it was advisable to send him to the asylum. Dr. Mack was born in Delaware county, New York, and is [illegible] of age. He came from Illinois to [illegible] some 14 years. For many years he was engaged in the drug business in East Portland, and in the practice of his profession. His friends will learn with sincere sorrow of the misfortune which has overtaken him. Dr. Mack has a wife and three children.

AWNING FELL.—About 1:30 yesterday afternoon [illegible] feet of the old dilapidated awning which for many years stood in front of a rickety tenement on the south side of [illegible] street, near First, came down with a loud crash. The awning came down as four men were walking under it; but luckily no one was killed or even seriously injured. These men—named respectively Raymond, Foster, Clifton and Dorcheimer—were carrying on their shoulders a heavy [illegible] taken from Voss' old restaurant, and were trudging along unsuspecting danger just beneath the awning, the [illegible] came tumbling to the sidewalk, [illegible] like thunder, square on the top [illegible] forcing them to the ground. Luckily for them, the concern, which [illegible] a ton or more, with its accumulated moss, caught on a dry goods box, [illegible] the fall, otherwise one or two of [illegible] might have been killed. A [illegible] spectators hurried to the scene, and, [illegible] villainous trap, drew the men [illegible]. Every member of the four [illegible] cut and bruised, but, nevertheless happy at escaping so easily.

[illegible]'s PASSENGERS.—The item [illegible] Astoria, which was copied in THE [illegible] of yesterday, we find reflects very [illegible] the customs officials here. The [illegible] cleared from here with 256 Chinese, [illegible] entitled by her measurement to [illegible]. If she attempted to carry more [illegible] violating the law. The customs [illegible] here did their duty strictly. If [illegible] Chinese were mustered at Astoria, [illegible] more than the vessel could lawfully [illegible], the fault was that of her master [illegible] the custom house here. The captain [knew] the law on the subject and [illegible] passengers would be mustered [illegible], if he had more than his [illegible], he only was to blame.

[illegible] OF GETTYSBURG."—A correspondent from Vancouver, under date of [illegible], says: "The lecture given last [illegible] at the M. E. Church of Vancouver, [illegible] Howard, was a treat to the large [illegible] greeted him on that occasion. [illegible] of the subject, "Battle of Gettysburg," [illegible] that of experience, having been [illegible] principal actors in that great [illegible]. He told several very touching incidents, [as] well as gave a thrilling description of the battle. Gens Sawtelle and Morrow, [who] were also in the same battle, were [illegible] were referred to with the kindest [words] by the lecturer."

[illegible] PARTY.—Quite a number of [illegible] of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Knoll [illegible] at their pleasant home on Sunday [illegible], the occasion being the birthday of [illegible] little hostess. Handsome and [illegible] were made, among the number a beautiful oil painting of the lady [illegible] from her husband. The refreshments [illegible] abundant, the music excellent, [illegible] sociable, and altogether the [illegible] passed away delightfully.

[illegible] ANOTHER COMMAND.—Lieut [illegible], who has just returned from his [illegible] campaign, is in the city and will [illegible] Vancouver to-day. He will again [illegible] the Blue mountains this week, taking [illegible] six regular soldiers. On arrival [illegible] will select twenty and possibly forty [illegible] scouts, and will hold them in readiness [for] service next spring, or for an [illegible]

[illegible] CHAS. MESERVE.—Mr. Chas. Me[illegible], brother-in-law of Mr. H. M. Dimick, [illegible] the residence of the latter, No. 115 [illegible] street, at noon yesterday from the [illegible] injuries received by the fall of an [illegible] in San Francisco some time ago. [illegible] will take place at 2 o'clock this [illegible] from Mr. Dimick's residence.

[illegible]—The next meeting of the Young [illegible] Association will be held this Tuesday [illegible] in the vestry of the Baptist [illegible], commencing at 7:30 P. M. sharp. The [illegible] will be held by Mr. W. F. Burney. [illegible] of the evening: The Christian's Hap[illegible]. Everybody invited to come and join.

[illegible] DEPUTY.—Mr. P. Leonard, who [illegible] connected with the office of the [illegible] clerk for some time, has been tendered the position of deputy clerk of the [illegible] States circuit court and has accepted. Mr. Leonard is a very competent [illegible], and Capt. Lamson could scarcely [illegible] a better selection.

[illegible] EGG.—Mr. Wm. Basham, a resident [of this] county, who takes special pride in his [illegible], has presented us with an egg laid by [illegible] "barnyard" hen, which measures [illegible]. This result was produced by [illegible] feeding, which Mr. B claims to be the [illegible] of excellence in all grades of chickens.

[illegible] N. P. R. R.—The barkentine Me[illegible], from San Francisco, is unloading [illegible] for the N. P. R. R., at McCraken's [illegible]. The rails are being placed on board [the] steamer S. T. Church, and will be conveyed to the Cascades and from there will be [illegible] to the front.

[illegible] RAILS.—The ship Tecumseh, with 1600 [illegible] eighteen miles, of steel rails, for the [illegible] Oregon road, will arrive shortly. [illegible] rails for this road are made of the best [illegible]. A new track on Fourth street will be [illegible] the depot to bridge No. 2.

[illegible] A SPECIAL TERM.—Judge Bellinger [illegible] a special term of court last Saturday in Oregon City, and returned in [time] to resume business in this city at 11 A. M. of the same day.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

The enterprising firm of Lewis & Strauss, [illegible] an entire new line of dress goods, dolmans, [illegible] Gossamer goods, millinery and kid gloves [illegible] received by express and now opening at the [illegible] House. Prices lower than ever.

Attention is invited to the advertisement of the [illegible] drug house of S. G. Skidmore & Co., [illegible] First street. They keep at all times a large [illegible] of drugs, chemicals, patent medicines, paints, [illegible] artists' and wax flower materials, toilet [illegible] and perfumery. Specialties of S. G. Skidmore & Co. are the "III" perfume put up expressly [illegible], and Syke's sure cure for catarrh.

At the One Price Store there will be a great clearance sale of bankrupt stock at No. 221 First street, [illegible] Salmon and Maine. These goods must be [illegible] regardless of cost. The line of goods includes [illegible] stock of dry goods, ladies' and gents' [illegible] goods, domestics, blankets, quilts, dress [illegible], bedspreads, sheetings, cashmeres, flannels, [illegible], towels, table linen, 100 pieces all [illegible]. Great bargains can be secured. [illegible] fail to call and see for yourself.

[illegible] Prentice & Co., Music Dealers, will [illegible] 1st to the store lately occupied [illegible] Gill & Co., 107 First street, where [illegible] increased stock in all their lines [illegible] to meet their old friends [illegible]. Messrs. P. & Co. intend making [illegible] center of attraction for [illegible] and are determined to [illegible] prices down to New York [illegible] the largest and most com[illegible] merchandise in [illegible]

THE MECHANICS' FAIR.

SEVENTH DAY.

Auspicious Opening of the Second Week.

There is no abatement in the attendance and the interest in the greatest exhibition ever seen north of San Francisco. The crowd last night was equal to that of the heaviest evening of last week, except Saturday. The managers, the exhibitors, and the visitors seem to be equally well pleased.

TAN BROS

Exhibit a complete display of woodenware and brooms, all of which are their own manufacture, and are admired by all who see it as being first class. We are reliably informed that none of their goods were made especially, but are an average sample of their stock in trade. The articles they had prepared for the display were all consumed in the conflagration that destroyed their woodenware factory on the evening of Sept. 22d. Although not prepared for the occasion, they are making a magnificent display. We notice nine different sizes of tubs, all exquisitely finished, and several different varieties of pails, four different styles of washboards, besides an endless variety of churns, butter moulds, barrel covers, towel rollers, and many other articles in their line too numerous to mention in detail. Their brooms are perfect beauties, all sizes and grades, including the "socket" or detachable handle broom. We are sure that we do not exaggerate when we say that all the goods they manufacture are far superior in quality and finish to eastern goods, and all who have used them will agree with us.

GENERAL NOTES.

Among the attendants worthy of special commendation for their invariably polite attention to visitors and the impartial manner in which they perform their duties, are Special Officer Campbell and J.C. Kelly, doorkeeper of the Second street entrance.

Messrs Kealy & Duboise exhibited yesterday morning in the fruit department a box of strawberries which were grown out of doors, near Paradise during Mount Tabor.

Mr. George Nicol, chief engineer of the steamer California, placed on exhibition yesterday some pieces of rock containing fine specimens of garnet taken from the rocks forming the banks of the Stickeen river, seven miles above Wrangel. They can be seen with the exhibit of the Oregon brass works, north of the flower display, on the main floor.

In noticing the fancy work contributed by the ladies to the fair we noticed a bouquet of crystallized grasses in a pine cone holder as the work of Mrs Geo. Bell, when it should have been credited to Mrs J. M. Hulery.

A bunch of wheat in the sheaf is shown by Jos. Oppenheimer which was raised by that old Portlander, Jake Stitzel, near Fort Colville. Mr. Stitzel raised about 1000 bushels of such wheat the past season. Some excellent in the stalk is also shown by Dr. Hawthorne, raised on his farm in Washington county.

E Shannon shows a fine collection of canned fruits and vegetables, put up by himself in this city and said by those who have tasted them to be fully equal to the best imported.

Mr Riggs entertains a good many visitors by showing them the working of Shogren's foot power machine an Oregon invention, which is worked by the foot, and saws blocks and sticks of wood like it had a steam engine behind it.

Visitors have been much annoyed by the failure to get the catalogue of pictures on exhibition out earlier. The catalogue might have been a great help if it explains why some of the pictures were ever painted.

The pupils of St. Mary's academy will visit the pavilion in a body Thursday afternoon, the admission fee for them having been fixed at ten cents. The managers of the fair have very kindly offered to admit the orphans of St. Mary's academy and the little ones of the children's home free any day they wish to come.

The following is the programme of the Washington Guard Band for this evening:

1. Grand March.
2. Operatic Selections.
3. Ladies' Schottische.
4. Galop.
5. Mein Engel, Mein Allein.
6. Quickstep.

BRIEF NOTES.

Exit Lucerne.

The Elder has arrived.

Police matters are boiling.

James H. Lappeus is the man

Pinafore rehearsal last evening.

The Grant "boom" still "booms."

Fair well patronized last evening.

Sheriff Norden has the tax roll for collection.

Besser's star has set; Lappeus is in the ascendant

Gas and coal oil not needed on the streets these nights.

Clean up your streets and remove the leaves from the sidewalk

The police commissioners stood solid. They did it with their little votes.

The steamship State of California took away 115 tons of Thurston county coal.

Yesterday the City of Cashmere left here with a full cargo of wheat for Liverpool.

M'lle Christine, the two-headed woman, and the dwarfs, have gone from our gaze.

Manager Maguire has concluded not to produce Pinafore until next Monday evening.

Clear, bracing weather. Notwithstanding this, many find it convenient to "brace up" with whisky straight.

The steamer Alice is still at Oregon City undergoing repairs and will probably not leave the dry dock for some time.

The steamers Champion, McMinnville, Governor Grover and Fanny Patton are lying at the boneyard below the Waite House.

Ball by the Independent Order of Good Samaritans and Daughters of Samaria at Nonpareil hall to night. Tickets only 50 cents.

The south wall of the large reception room, used by the Odd Fellows in their temple, corner of First and Alder streets, is being repaired.

It is said that the new policemen to be appointed will carry clubs like base ball players. They will then be known as the Willow Copse.

The steam schooner Kate & Anne will leave Flanders' wharf on Thursday morning for Yaquina bay. This vessel will run regular if business warrants.

The walking match, "go as you please," at the police court began at half past seven o'clock last night. There was a meager attendance. The contestants were S. G. Skidmore, Peter Taylor, and E. Corbett and together they made one lap in twenty minutes.

"LAST CHANCE" MILLER.

HE IS TAKEN TO THE ASYLUM AT EAST PORTLAND.

Mr. Christopher Columbus Miller, whose name has been mentioned in THE OREGONIAN columns several times within the past month, and who is probably better known as "Last Chance" Miller, was conveyed to the insane asylum at East Portland yesterday morning. In court he told a long, rambling, but exceeding laughable story of his domestic troubles, which was heartily enjoyed by Judge Rice, the physicians and hangers on. He says that last Friday night he was shot by a man known as Charles Adams, and he bears the marks of shot in his right foot, in his hands, and on his scalp.

He was conveyed to the asylum in a fine coupe, accompanied by Jailor Barry. As they stopped near THE OREGONIAN office waiting for the ferry, one of our reporters greeted Miller with "Well, Christopher Columbus, what's up now?" Miller answered, "Young man, I can tell you my story in exactly five words—my own heartlessly deserting me, home made untearable, shot at by murderers, locked in prison,—sent to the asylum," and assuming a tragic air, he summed up in one sentence the true cause of man's suffering from the days of Eve down to Dr. Mary Walker, when he exclaimed, "I am a married man!"

NEW CHIEF OF POLICE.

Meeting of the Board of Police Commissioners—Removal of Lucerne Besser and Election of James H. Lappeus.

Last evening, at 7:30, the regular meeting of the Police Commissioners was held at their rooms

Present—Peter Taylor, chairman of the board, E. Corbett, and S. G. Skidmore, the newly appointed commissioner.

Minutes of the last meeting read and approved.

The watch book was examined, and other routine business was transacted

On motion the office of chief of police was declared vacant by unanimous vote of the board.

On motion Mr. James H Lappeus was unanimously chosen to fill the position of chief of police, vice Lucerne Besser, removed.

On motion the board adjourned.

The official bond required of the chief of police has been given, and Chief Lappeus will enter upon the duties of the responsible position at once.

SIC SEMPER BRUTUS BOGARDUS.

And it came to pass that the Ides of October had waned and the fogs of autumn had settled upon the Capitoline Hills, and Stephanius was chosen one of the triumvirate who were to select the Chief Lictor.

And it came to pass that the triumvirate were dissatisfied with Luzerinus, who was born in an alfalfa patch and took his 'alf and 'alf accordingly.

Whereupon the triumvirate forced Luzerinus to resign, and in his place they ordained Lappius Claudius as Chief Lictor, he who dwelt in the house named after the fine gold.

And upon his brow they set the crown of laurel and in his hands they placed the ax and bunch of rods

And they marched down towards the bank of the Tiber—now known as the Wallamet—and the band played the "Skidmore Guards."

THE SIGNAL SERVICE.

A Glance at the Portland Observer's Office.

EFFICIENCY OF THE AMERICAN SYSTEM OF SIGNALS.

Some Interesting Facts Connected with the Service.

The [illegible] one of the great results of [illegible] and the honor for its present [illegible] belongs solely to the American people. Under the management of "Old Probabilities," Myer, at Washington, the system has steadily [illegible] until now practically even the fickle winds are under the control of man. By the completeness of the arrangements thousands of dollars are annually saved to commerce, [illegible] not all a count of life saved.

The system of signals as used in warfare antedates the time of Polybius, who lived about 200 years before the Christian era, and who mentions in his writings the wonderful skill acquired in their adaptation to war. In after years their use became far more extensive, being used especially in naval encounters. With the wonderful development of the sciences, and especially the invention of telegraphy, the means were offered for carrying on the system to the perfection to which it has now attained. In connection with the war department, the signal service bureau was established and its success ever since its founding has been assured. At different cities and points operators have been sent to send to the central office at Washington, not only the meteorological reports, but to give special reports upon tempests at sea, the tides, temperatures, etc. These reports are all carefully compiled by experts at headquarters, who by experimental knowledge, ever augmenting, and theoretical as well are able to prognosticate the future weather with wonderful exactness. Not only are these signal stations established in seaport towns and on prominent mountain heights, but through out the interior as well. Notice is taken of the condition of all the larger rivers as to its effect on navigation.

When the present efficient system was first organized it was almost impossible to secure men to fill the different positions; now, it is said, there are fully 500 applicants for work under the bureau. When a person has passed the competitive examination for admission into the corps, he is sent to Fort Whipple or Arlington Heights, opposite Washington at which places he is thoroughly instructed in all that pertains to his future duties. They are taught complete mastery of meteorological instruments, the modes of observing and the forms and duties incumbent upon the operator at his station. As the bureau is a part of the war department they are instructed in the use of arms and the usual duties of soldiers.

In every station the observer is furnished with a barometer, thermometer, maximum thermometer, minimum thermometer, an anemometer with electrical attachment and self registering apparatus, a wind vane and rain gauge. In seaport cities he is further supplied with storm signals and thermometers designed to measure the temperature of the waters at different depths. Doubtless the most interesting of these instruments is the anemometer and its auxiliary machinery for registering the velocity of the wind. The flying cups on top of the Scotch bank building in this city are noticed every day, but few have an idea of the delicate machinery connected therewith. A rod is joined to the revolving hemispheres which passes down to what may be called a box, filled with wheels and screws. There are in this box no less than six endless screws designed to give slow motion to the dial which indicates the velocity. One strange thing connected with the box is the love spiders have for it as a home. It is a very usual thing for the operator to find a good sized spider ensconced therein, and how he gets there is the mystery. Only recently Mr. Herman, the observer in this city, when about to read the dial, found it necessary to take the anemometer into parts and banish from inside a large spider which, disgusted with the excess of sunlight had spun a web across the dial glass. It is impossible to surmise how he got there, and the puzzle is of increased interest when we consider the frequency with which like instances happen. The box being outside and enclosing delicate work must needs be air tight, at least water tight. To insure this, Mr. Herman last week filled up every crevice that could possibly leak, even the tight fitting screws being covered. And yet somehow spiders find an entrance, but the entire service cannot determine how. But to return to the instrument. From the box the machinery is connected with a very pretty piece of apparatus in the operator's room. A recent invention this, which is designed for the convenience of the observer and to secure infallibility in the calculations. It consists of clock work which runs a cylinder on whose circumference is fastened a paper. By a ratchet arrangement in the box before mentioned, every time a mile has been traveled by the wind a spring slips, pressing together two metallic plates and causing an electric current which has its effect at the cylinder. At the cylinder is a regular electrical enumerator furnished with a stylus pressed against the paper. At the coming together of the metallic plates the movement of the enumerator moves the stylus and a mile is indicated. By an arrangement of springs the stylus takes a spiral course and thus travels a considerable distance on the small piece of paper. Ofttimes the velocity of the wind is so great that the lateral marks of the point are so close together as to demand a magnifying glass to count them.

At points where the velocity of the wind is high notably at Mount Washington, where it has been registered at 185 miles per hour, and at Pike's Peak, Green River and a few other places, exceeding careful work is necessary to accurately count the marks. At Portland the greatest velocity recorded [illegible] miles per hour. All the instruments are read three times a day, and the result sent to the central office by telegraph. Very few have an idea of the calculations which the observer has got to make. Columns of large figures are to be added up at stated times and with the most careful exactness. At Washington the entire work is done over again, and every effort taken to insure careful precision. The amount of red tape work is astonishing, and its quantity is steadily on the increase. The first observation is sent from this city at 4:30 o'clock A. M. It is one of the rules of the service that the first observation must be telegraphed to Washington so as to reach the central office at 7:30. This of course necessitates an early rising by the western operators, who are inclined to envy their eastern brothers' more fortunate condition as regards sleep. The second telegraphic observation is now taken at 1:30 P. M., but on and after Nov. 1st it will be taken at 11:57 A. M. at this station.

One of the recommendations of the Vienna conference in 1873 was the co-operation of the different countries in meteorological work. The recommendation has been acted upon, but with nothing like the result which will be attained in the future when the inter-exchange of observations will have been more complete. At present in the United States it would seem impossible to improve the system. Besides the daily bulletins and maps, weekly reviews of the weather are furnished the press, and a monthly review, accompanied with charts showing the isobaric and isothermal lines, the prevailing winds, the tracks of low barometer, and a precipitation chart for the month.

Mr. F. R. Herman, the observer at Portland has been connected with the service for several years, is a prompt and efficient officer, and is at all times courteous and obliging.

WM. SCHEFFLER'S ST. HELENA

SANITARY, VACUUM DISTILLED GRAPE BRANDY AND GOOD OLD EDGE HILL WINES.

Mr. Scheffler is sole proprietor of the principle known as the vacuum process of distilling, by which the fusil oils are left with the residue and not incorporated with the brandy, leaving it pure and free from all deleterious substances which does and must exist in all alcoholic liquors distilled by the usual process of boiling heat. California Physicians have pronounced their preference of it to all other. Doctor Cox government revenue officer at Cincinnati, Ohio, says in his report, that after ten years' of close investigation he can safely say that very few, if any, pure wines or brandy are exported from the Old Continent to this. He has found none in his many analyses—that all are doctored before leaving France. The French Consul at Buenos Ayres writes home to his government that so much complaint is made there of the appearance of litharge and other dangerous drugs in all their French wines, that there is great danger of losing the trade of the Argentine States. Other proofs could be cited were it necessary, to prove the superiority of the best class of California wines and brandy. Orders from responsible parties, addressed to Wm. Scheffler, or Geo. H. Beach, St. Helena, Napa county, Cal., will receive prompt attention.

TRUTH IS MIGHTY.

As the little leaven hid in the measure of meal, made all leaven, so truth gradually overcomes all doubt and disbelief. When Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., announced that his Favorite Prescription would positively cure the many diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women, some doubted and continued to employ the harsh and caustic local treatment. But the mighty truth gradually became acknowledged. Thousands of ladies who had uselessly undergone untold tortures at the hands of different physicians, employed the Favorite Prescription, and were speedily cured. Many physicians now prescribe it in their practice. So sanguine is Dr. Pierce of its power to cure, that he now sells it through druggists under a positive guarantee.

A NEW ERA IN SHEEP HUSBANDRY.

The American Stockman thinks there is warrant for saying that this country is entering upon a new era in sheep husbandry which is fraught with great promise for the future of that important industry—an era which will bring wealth and honor to intelligent and careful flock-masters, and to the country at large.

First there is the assured demand for wool to meet the requirements of the manufacturers of woolen goods, or, rather, the consumption of such goods by the people. During the period of business depression through which the country has passed, there was under consumption of woolen goods; the mills turned out a class of fabrics into whose texture entered, more or less, cut-up rags. Shoddy goods were the rule, and straight woolen fabrics the exception. People will buy good goods if they are able to do so, knowing that the best is the cheapest. Western mills, almost without exception, make straight goods, and eastern manufacturers will be compelled, sooner or later, to adopt the same policy. Indeed, the percentage of the stuff which circumstances made necessary for some years past, forms an inconsiderable portion of the product of the mills at the present time, and as such is being relegated to the rear, there is little probability that it will ever regain the place it recently occupied.

Again, notwithstanding the quantity of refuse with which rag dealers furnish the mills, the country has been a large importer of wool and woolen goods; in other words we have fallen short of supplying our home requirements for wool by millions of dollars' worth. If this was the case while prostration marked almost every branch of industry, how much greater must be the deficit with labor of all kinds employed, and every manufacturing industry in active operation, unless the wool product is largely increased? We have not taken into account the increase of population, which, as recent statistics show, is being greatly augmented by immigration, and constitute an item by no means insignificant in forecasting the future requirements of the country for wool and woolen fabrics.

The foreign meat traffic furnishes, also, an opportunity to extend sheep husbandry in the production of mutton, which must, we opine, awaken a far greater interest in that branch of the business than has hitherto been known among us. The export trade in mutton—live and dead—is increasing every year, and must do so for some time to come. It is, as yet, in its infancy, and as American farmers come to understand, more generally, what the foreign market requires, it needs no seer to predict that this traffic will reach proportions compared with which its present volume is insignificant. Our capacity for the production of mutton of fine quality is almost without limit, and upon the quality of the product more than anything else the volume of this traffic depends. That it may be vastly augmented does not now admit of question; and that it will continue to grow in greater ratio even than it has yet done is scarcely less probable. Greater care in selection in breeding, in rearing, in alimentation, on the part of farmers who make this branch of sheep husbandry a part of their business, will mark the future of this industry, and place it on a higher plane than it has yet occupied in American agriculture, for the inducements are greater than they have ever been before.

From every point of view, therefore, the outlook for sheep and wool is encouraging. The opportunities are not wanting to make this industry more prosperous than it has ever been in this country, and judicious flock-masters, breeders and farmers will turn them to advantage. As has aptly been said by a prominent authority in this industry: "The 'luck' of sheep husbandry is so thoroughly within the control of the flock-master that he rarely need look beyond his own management of those causes and effects which go to make or mar his fortune." The present is a time, we believe, when the chances are all in the flock-master's favor.

The Prospect of a Moral Interregnum.

A collapse of religious belief, of the most complete and tremendous kind, is apparently now at hand. At the time of the reformation the question was, after all, only about the form of Christianity; and even the skeptics of the last century, while they rejected Christ, remained firm theists; not only so, but they mechanically retained the main principles of Christian morality, as we see in Voltaire's letters on the Quakers. Very different is the crisis at which we have now arrived. No one who has watched the progress of discussion and the indications of opinion in literature and in social intercourse can doubt that, in the minds of those whose views are likely to become—and in an age when all thought is rapidly popularized soon to become—the views of society at large, belief in Christianity as a revealed and supernatural religion has given way. Science and criticism combined have destroyed the faith of free inquirers in the Mosaic cosmogony, in the inspiration of the bible and the genuineness of many books of it, in large portions of the history of the Old Testament, and in the history of the New Testament so far as it is miraculous or inseparably connected with miracles. The mortal blow has been given by criticism in disproving or rendering uncertain the authenticity of the historical books of the New Testament. Not supernatural religion alone, but the existence of a Deity itself, has for many minds, and those the minds of good, able, and highly instructed men, ceased to be an object of distinct belief, if it has not become an object of disbelief. The emancipated and emboldened lips of science have met the theist's argument of design with the apparent evidences of the absence of design, waste and miscarriage in the heavens and the earth, seemingly purposeless havoc and extinction of races; while philosophy has breathed doubt upon the logical validity of the reasonings which satisfied the apologists of former days. The argument of beneficence is encountered by the perplexing array of the cruelties—often apparently gratuitous cruelties—of nature. Above all, creation is supposed to have been supplanted by evolution, which, in spite of partial objections, lingering doubts, and the imperfections sure to be found in any new-born theory, is to all appearances destined soon to be the creed of the world. With the belief in a Deity perishes that in the immortality of the soul, which, apart from animistic superstitions and special fancies about the other world, is a belief in the connection of the human soul with the Eternal. Nothing apparently is left but the secular consequences of conduct, human law, which the strong may make or unmake, and reputation, which success, even criminal success, may to a great extent command. That which prevails as Agnosticism among philosophers and the highly educated prevails as secularism among mechanics, and in that form is likely soon to breed mutinous questionings about the present social order among those who get the worse share, and who can no longer be bribed by promises of compensation in another world.

The Andersonville Prison.

Quoting an expression concerning the Andersonville prison from a speech delivered in Ohio during the late canvass, the Okolona States in its customary style says:

The inmates of the Andersonville prison came down here

To drench our land with blood and tears;
To burn and blister it with fire;
To rob and ravish it of its possessions;
To hurl us under the hellish rule of bloodthirsty scoundrels and savages.

Did they think we would furnish them with

Chicken pie,
Cake,
Wine,
Lemonade,

and all the delicacies of the season, if we tripped them up in their tramp through our country?

These red handed traitors should thank their stars that they received the unmerited mercy of life itself at our hands.

In many a land, the ready rope, and bullet, and knife would have sent them kicking to kingdom-come in a York minute.

Forney on Grant.

Forney in his Progress virtually comes out for Grant for president. The following paragraph has a distinct Forneyish flavor:

I have it, from a very high quarter, that Gen. Grant feels greatly the solemnity of the experiment of a third term, and also the highest respect for those citizens who recall and regret some of the errors of his former administrations. He is too genuine a patriot not to weigh with conscientious care both these considerations. Thousands who insist that a third term means Cæsarism, do not understand and never did understand Grant, and as most of them were sympathizers with the rebellion, they never could understand the American people.

They are again trying to save the Old South church. Next to keeping Butler out of the executive office, this is the chief aim of man in Massachusetts.

Monetary matters appear to be quite active and for the season there is a large demand coming mostly from those engaged in moving the wheat crop, in which movement there is a very considerable amount used just now. There is also some call for investment in real estate, more particularly city property, and while the quotable rates for loans are not positively higher there is a hardening tendency clearly manifest in the market.

Interior dealers will save considerable trouble and annoyance, if not money, by sending samples of grain, wheat and oats, to J. R. Farish, manager of the merchants' exchange, who will put the different samples in bottles that will be sealed, labeled with quantity, where from and by whom sent. The same will be exposed on the sample table, where buyers can buy by the sample, and in case of dispute as to quality sent it can be easily settled by comparison with sample at the merchants' exchange. Besides this, interior dealers not wishing to come down to sell grain can always sell by telegraph or by mail, referring to sample No. 1 or No. 2, as the case may be, at the merchants' exchange. This is more particularly desirable now that there is so much rusted wheat in the valley the grade of which varies very considerably—some worth as high as $1 80 per cental, some as low as $1 50. No charges are made against any one for exposing or keeping samples sent to the exchange. There is now at the exchange about thirty different samples sent in by dealers.

There seems a general determination on the part of buyers to bear the market and equally as strong a tendency to keep up prices on the part of holders, many of whom refuse all offers under $2 per cental. At present freight rates shippers see but little to encourage them in taking up vessels, and as the fleet now on hand under engagement will soon be disposed of, unless there is a change in the attitude of the market, both for vessels and for cargoes, we look for a check upon the quite extensive movement now going. While holders contend for about $2, buyers are unwilling to accede, and at $1 95 purchased only what is required by present wants; at $1 90@1 92½ there is a fair demand.

DR. PAUL M. BRENAN

The Most Successful Physician on the Pacific Coast,

IN THE TREATMENT OF ALL

CHRONIC AND DIFFICULT DISEASES.

HAS RETURNED AFTER AN EXTENSIVE tour of the Eastern States, for the past four months. The Doctor while absent visited all the principal Medical institutions in the large cities of the United States, and comes back with all the modern methods, instruments and appliances known to the most scientific men in the profession. The Doctor has also brought charts and manikins to illustrate his lecture.

DR. PAUL M. BRENAN has been fifteen years lecturing on the Laws of Life and Health. In his private and public lectures he has taught men and women the true system of life, how to be healthy and happy, if they would only be guided by his wise counsel. But all cannot hear his delightful and instructive lectures, nor can he tell everything necessary for suffering humanity to know from the public rostrum before a promiscuous audience. There remains much to be learned from him as his experience extends over broad fields of active professional life. This knowledge so necessary to the welfare of the sufferer can only be gleaned by private Professional Consultation at his office.

His experience in the various parts of Europe and America give him such opportunities of learning the delicate diseases which the human family are prone to, their mode of treatment and permanent cure, as no other physician on the Pacific Coast can claim. He has not only treated these diseases most successfully, but has made them a life study, as a few moments' consultation will prove.

He has become an expert in the treatment of disease, weakness and derangement of the reproductive organs of both male and female, including diseases caused by the

FOLLIES OF YOUTH,

Such as SPERMATORRHEA, or SEMINAL WEAKNESS, or LOSS OF PERFECT VITALITY. Nearly two thirds of all the Chronic Diseases spring, either directly or indirectly, from some derangement of the sexual system and yet this subject is neglected by the majority of the Medical Profession.

IT IS TRUE

That persons who are unfortunate enough to be afflicted by any form of sexual disease have a delicacy in calling upon the proper physician in time, from a sense of modesty and sometimes from ignorance, and permit these diseases to exist until their constitutions become corrupted, their organization broken down and the hope of future happiness blighted, until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence.

Those who call in time upon DR. PAUL M. BRENAN need have no fear but what he will restore them to perfect health and vigor, make their body pure and their mind content, if they will only follow his advice and treatment.

Catarrh, Bronchitis, Throat Diseases, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Kidney Complaint and all Diseases of the Eye and Ear, Stomach and Bladder. He can cure without fail. No Quack Nostrums used; no slop treatment; no false promises.

Everything strictly confidential under all circumstances.

Consultation Free, and a list of printed questions sent to those living at a distance who cannot consult him personally, and fine Surgical Operations performed.

Office—No. 63 First street, between Oak and Pine. Office Hours—From 10 to 12 A. M., 2 to 5 and 7 to 8 P. M. oct27tf

OVERALLS

"THEY CONTAIN THE BEST MATERIAL, ARE SEWN WITH LINEN THREAD, And ARE THE MOST PERFECT FITTING."

In putting on or taking off Overalls, the strain on the crotch often causes them to rip; and to remedy this we are making a continuous strip of cloth, extending the entire length of both sides of the Overall from the crotch and secured thereto at every point. Under these improvements, we claim that our Overalls will stand greater strain than any other make in the market.
